About My Grandparents

HOUSE IN ITALY

On the river side in Veneto region in Italy is located a very original house. Thanks to the great taste of the make up artist Francesca and her husband an old ruined house that they bought in 2000 has been turned in a beautiful house for week end. Having plenty of time for decorating this home none detail has been left aside.

When grandparents decide to move in this became the all family holidays house and the all rooms with Francesca touch got different personality.

Basically inspired at French country style, the house warm atmosphere generate from the setting of a variety of ancient country Italian pieces. Some of them has been found at local flea markets in a very bad condition and turned, with the house owner expert hand, into unique pieces of art. "Is when you have to rescue a piece and to give it a new life that your creativity comes out, is that the moment you can decide to decorate a drawer in a unusual way or to test different varnishing technique for a cabinet without being worry to damage it" Francesca says.

Every ambience have different colors palette; for the living area a romantic pink velvet perfectly match the ecru and the fireplace white stone as well as the white decap' furniture varnish.

A provencal bright blue and white has been used in to a bedroom and its bathroom and precious linen fabric has been used for the curtains that blow when the windows are open into the river park. Great-grandmother linen bedding gives the bed a final romantic touch.

Another room got more of Tuscany sunset colors. A warm orange has been adopted for the walls combine to country style striped linen for curtain and bed cover.
